The Minutes of the Proceedings of the Parliament of Scotland, which were omitted in Yesterday's Courant for want of Room.

Edinburgh, December 18.

Address of the Town and Parishes of Lawder and Chainhillkirk subscribing the same. And Address of Heritors, Life-renters, Elders, Parishoners, and remanent Indwellers in the Parish of Calder, Subscribers of the same, both against an Union with England in the Terms of the Articles, given in and read. Thereafter another Report brought in from the Committee, to whom the 8th Article of Union is remitted, was read in these Terms, That White-Herrings, Red-Herrings, and Salmon, dry or barrell'd Codd, and all Fishes cured and pack'd, in order to Exportation, ought to be cured and pack'd with forreign Salt, allenarly; and that it does require 4 Bolls of forreign Salt to cure and pack a Laft of White-Herring. And after much Debate thereupon, a Motion was made for amending that Clause of the said 8th Article of Union, mention'd in the former Days Minutes in relation to, the continuing in Force the Laws and Acts of Parliament in Scotland, for pining, curing and packing of Herrings, White-Fish and Salmon, for Exportation with forreign Salt only by adding these Words, Without any Mixture of British or Irish Salt. And the Addition being accordingly made, the Clause as so amended was read over. And after some further Debate the Vote was put, approve of the said Clause as amended, yea or no, and it carried approve. Thereafter it was propos'd, that the Parliament shall proceed to consider the Draw-backs. Therefore there shall be allowed, and paid during the present Allowances, for other Fishes for every Barrell of White-Herrings which shall be exported, 10 Shillings Sterling. And another Report brought in from the said Committee was also read in these Terms, That 16 Shillings and 8 Pence upon every Barrell of Salmon, 6 Shillings and 8 Pence upon every Barrell of Red-Herrings, That 2 Pound 10 Shillings upon every 100 Codd-Fish, Ling or Hack,

For every such Fish of the length of 18 Inches and upwards, and under 24 Inches, and an moiety of the foresaid Allowance, for every such Fish dried commonly call'd Haverdens, of the like Dimensions (being the Draw-backs allowed by the English Laws upon the Exportation on these Fishes) are sufficient Encouragements. And after reasoning on the above several Reports, it being moved a higher Draw-back should be allowed upon the Exportation of White-Herrings. After some further Debate thereon, the said last Clause of the 8th Article of Union was agreed to with this Addition, That there shall be allowed and paid to the Subject, Inhabitants of Great Britain, during the present Allowances for other Fishes, for every Barrell of White-Herrings, which shall be exported, 10 Shillings and 5 Pence Sterling. And after Debate thereupon, the further Consideration thereof was delayed till next Sederunt of Parliament. And adjourn'd till to Morrow.

Amsterdam, Dec. 31. 'The 29th Instant the States General caus'd the Ministers that reside at the Hague on the Part of the several Princes of Germany to be invited to a Conference: And most of them appear'd. It was represented to them by their High Mightinesses Deputies, that pursuant to a Resolution of the 29th of November, a Letter had been written, on the Part of their High Mightinesses, to the Princes and Circles of Germany, to exhort them to recruit their Troops and make the necessary Preparations, in Order not only to avoid such a Disgrace as they suffer'd from the Marshal de Villars the Beginning of the last Campaign, but likewise vigorously to attack the Enemy, whom 'tis design'd to push with Vigour in other Parts: That they had receiv'd several Answers, all full of large Promises; but that notwithstanding, they had Advice there was so general an Indolence spread through the whole Body of the Empire, that hardly any one of its Members made any Steps towards discharging their Duty: And that therefore they thought fit personally to desire the said Ministers, to renew their most pressing Instances to their several Principals on so important a Subject. All the Ministers that were at the Conference, gave Assurances each for himself, that their Masters would apply themselves effectually to the providing of their respective Contingents. On this Occasion the Prussian Envoy presented to the States the Answer of the King his Master to their foresaid Letter; it import'd among other things, that he had given Order for Recruits to be rais'd for his Troops that serve in Italy, and that he would do the like for those that serv'd the last Campaign in Flanders, which he would still leave to the Disposal of England and Holland. The said Envoy daily expects from Berlin the King his Master's Ratification of the Treaty for the 8000 Men in Italy, sign'd with the Duke of Marlborough. An Express is arriv'd at the Hague from Italy, with an Account, that pursuant to a Resolution of their High Mightinesses, their Minister M. Vander Meer is gone from Turin for Florence, to solicit the Grand Duke of Tuscany to interpose his good Offices with the Court of Rome in favour of the Bishop of Paderborn. What other News this Express has brought is not yet perfectly known: But in general 'tis known that the Duke of Savoy is not a little dissatisfied that the Court of Vienna take to themselves the intire Disposal of the Affairs of the Milanese. He complains particularly that the Money rais'd in it is all converted to their own Use by the Imperial Court, while without reckoning the Subsidies due to him from that Court, above 7 Millions are owing to him for Money disburs'd by him for Pay, Bread, Cloaths, and other Necessaries furnish'd to the Imperial Troops while in Piemont: And Count Maffei is go over to England, with a Commission relating to these Matters. The Imperial Court are not without a Plea for their Proceedings in the Milanese: One thing urg'd for them, by indifferent Persons, is, that that Dutchy is a Fief of the Empire, and that till the Investiture of it is actually demanded by King Charles III. and granted to him in Form, it absolutely remains by Right to the Lord of the Fief, who in 1701 began the War in Italy to recover it, and has furnish'd Troops (more or less) every Year since to carry on that War. To this 'tis reply'd, on the other side, that seeing the Investiture of the State of Milan can on no Pretence be refus'd K. Charles of Spain when he shall ask it, he ought already to be deem'd virtually possess'd of it; that the World is sufficiently sensible the Recovery of the Milanese is owing wholly to the Fortitude of the Duke of Savoy in defending the little he had left of Piemont to the last Extremity, till Prince Eugene (effectually enabled by the Succours furnish'd him by England and Holland) could come to his Relief; and that the least Return the Imperial Court can at present make the Duke of Savoy, is to pay him with the Money rais'd in the Milanese the Sums so deservedly due to him, and not to postpone him and apply that Money to other Uses. The Transports that have on board the Recruits for Spain, lye ready to sail from the Texel: But the Men of War appointed for their Convoy, tho' they have got over the Pampus, cannot get to joyn them, because there is too little Water in the Zayder Zee; so they wait for a North-West Wind to make a sufficient Swell of Water to lift them over a Bank of Sand that is in their Way. Among the Recruits, are 500 Men of the Troops of Brabant, which the Council of State of that Country sends to King Charles III.
